11:25 - 11:55 Panel discussion: Are succession stories still the main source for deals for PE/VC in the region, or is there a new generation of entrepreneurs who have taken over as a market for PE/VC investors?

Succession stories have been a valuable source of deals for PE/VC in the region

However, since 2010 we have seen the rise of a younger new generation of entrepreneurs (shaped by the 2008 financial crisis) who have successfully built profitable businesses ripe for PE/VC investment

Are succession-based investment opportunities still the primary source for PE/VC deals, or has this new class of founder entrepreneur taken over?

11:55 - 12:25 Panel discussion: What is the place for impact investment focused funds in CEE, and what exactly does impact investment mean?

Impact Investment is a large market for PE/VC in Europe generally, although there are precious few CEE focused players in this market. Why is this and how can we expect this to change in the future?

Does this trend and relative vacuum of regional impact investment funds represent a blue ocean of opportunities for fund raising?

Is the divestment trend of large institutionals in fossil fuels creating an opportunity for VC/PE funds to focus on impact investments?

Does impact investment mean a lesser focus on returning profit? Or can a fund focus on high returns while focusing on impact investments?
